After her engineering in 2002, Bangalore-based Richa Kar worked with software firms such as i-Flex and Intergraph. She also worked with Indian retail chain Spencers before moving to SAP as a consultant. It was on a consulting assignment with a global lingerie retailer that Richa discovered the need for a specialist online retailer in India.

The space is still not dominated by many niche players, even as big firms such as Flipkart and Amazon shy away from advertising their offerings in this section of their stores. Richa also runs a blog that advises Indian women on entrepreneurship

- Give you a powerful tool to test the hands on skills and strategic thinking of students

Workshop Training Activities:

1. Hands-on learning business :simulations provide an interactive and dynamic learning environment. It allows students to draw on what they've learned during the course and test their mettle against their peers regardless of time and location.
2. Risk-free experimentation:Making mistakes is an integral part of learning a new skill, and this is as true in business as it is in any other domain. Business management simulations let learners experiment freely with novel strategies without any real world repercussions.

3. Competition: Competition is at the heart of every business simulation, not only because it helps simulate a real world market situation, but also because the dynamic nature of friendly rivalry and teamwork can create a highly engaging learning environment.

4. Discipline specific: A business simulation game wouldn't be of much use if it weren't also relatable to the subject matter of the course. This is why a good business simulation will deal with discipline specific decisions in a controlled scenario well-structured rules and regulations. Securities mentioned here include debenture and share issued by a public company that is correctly listed at the stock exchange, debenture and bonds issued by the government bodies, municipal and public bodies. The following are the purposes of workshop.

5. Completely online: Students already do everything online, it is time their learning materials followed suit. Modern business simulation games are entirely web-based and make it easy for both students and teachers to access from anywhere in the world.

During the thirty hours of class, students will develop a concrete knowledge of how markets work. Since a big part of each session will be done in a virtual trading floor, they will practically learn how to trade a few instruments. to be a trader, a sales, a structurer Identify Risk Management issues related to market positions Become familiar with practical trading techniques Formal training to Bloomberg platform (Bloomberg Market Concepts). Students should be trained in the Bloomberg system, and be able to access information and quotes on basic financial instruments. They should be able to link Excel sheets to Bloomberg quotes.

Implications and Conclusion:

To conclude, study largely suggests rejection of the random walk hypothesis in the Indian stock market. This implies that the Indian equity market is not weak or efficient. The results indicate no significant difference in the behaviour of index returns between the NSE and BSE. Nevertheless, the stock indices having higher liquidity and market capitalization prove to be less inefficient than small indices on both the exchanges.

Furthermore, the small indices with less liquidity appear to be more vulnerable to external shocks. Sector Wise, there has not been much difference. In the light of the present evidence, it is clear that policy reforms aimed at improving the efficiency have not brought the desired results. In view of the above discussion, some policy implications are proposed here. The evidence of the existence of potential excess returns in short horizons of investment calls for policy measures aiming at proper dissemination of information to the participants. This has further support from the episodic nonlinear dependence, which suggests that investors take time to respond to the events. Further, to improve the performance of small indices having lesser liquidity, it is important to improve the liquidity of smaller stocks. Encouraging retail trading and promoting the mutual funds in the Indian market may achieve this. RBI's initiative for financial literacy and NSE's certificate courses for financial education are welcoming steps in this direction. External events have always created panic in the Indian stock market.

- Efficient implementation of many schemes such as Swachh Bharat Mission, LPG connections under Ujjawala, PM Jan Dhan Bank Accounts, etc, with universalization of targeted benefits, has resulted in inclusive development.

Opportunities that are transformative during Amrit kaal are

1. Economic Empowerment of Women: Deendayal Antyodaya Yojana National Rural Livelihood Mission has achieved remarkable success by mobilizing rural women into 81 lakh Self Help Groups and will enable these groups to reach the next stage of economic empowerment through formation of large producer enterprises or collectives with each having several thousand members and managed professionally.

The art and handicraft created by them represents the true spirit of Atma Nirbhar Bharat. These new schemes will enable them to improve the quality, scale and reach of their products, integrating them with the MSME value chain.

- To explore the opportunities for possible entry in other areas.
- To assess the requirements of labour, capital, and materials for the industries.
- To find out the possibilities of short term and long term development in various areas of the economy.
- To have the desire for technical knowledge, awareness towards new opportunities and acceptance of the changes.
- To see the possibilities of diverting the available resources towards achieving the business objectives.

Conclusion:

To summarize the session speakers taught through their empirical research and related literature knowledge. Our purpose was to summarize the starting points for a major new effort to better understand the links between leadership and student learning. This session helped in building leadership qualities and critical bridges between most educational reform initiatives and their consequences for students. Of all the factors that contribute to what students learn in this session, present evidence led us to the conclusion that leadership is second in strength only to classroom instruction. Furthermore, effective leadership has the greatest impact in real life circumstances in which it is most needed. This evidence supports the present widespread interest in improving leadership as a key to the successful implementation of large-scale reforms.

Stress Management

Stress is common issue that is faced by many individuals that we work with. In today's society, we thrive on performance, competition and perfection, which leads to an increase in stress.

There is saying

"Adopting the right attitude can convert a negative stress into positive one. God will never give you anything you can't handle, so don't stress."

So Enjoy the pressure, enjoy the stress, enjoy being uncomfortable and don't shy away from it, just embrace it with a positive mindset. So deal stress by staying cool and stay focussed.

Dr. B.V Seshadri also discussed about THIS importance of time management, healthy diet, respect your elders, do proper exercise etc.

It was indeed a good and helpful session.

Address by the Vice-Principal

Our honourable Vice Principal discussed about the Stress Management. She advised students not to take stress during examination days.

Implications and Conclusion:

To conclude, study largely suggests rejection of the random walk hypothesis in the Indian stock market. This implies that the Indian equity market is not weak or efficient. The results indicate no significant difference in the behaviour of index returns between the NSE and BSE. Nevertheless, the stock indices having higher liquidity and market capitalization prove to be less inefficient than small indices on both the exchanges.

Furthermore, the small indices with less liquidity appear to be more vulnerable to external shocks. Sector Wise, there has not been much difference. In the light of the present evidence, it is clear that policy reforms aimed at improving the efficiency have not brought the desired results. In view of the above discussion, some policy implications are proposed here. The evidence of the existence of potential excess returns in short horizons of investment calls for policy measures aiming at proper dissemination of information to the participants.

This has further support from the episodic nonlinear dependence, which suggests that investors take time to respond to the events. Further, to improve the performance of small indices having lesser liquidity, it is important to improve the liquidity of smaller stocks.

Principal
CITY COLLEGE
Jayanagar, Bangalore - 76

Encouraging retail trading and promoting the mutual funds in the Indian market may achieve this. RBI's initiative for financial literacy and NSE's certificate courses for financial education are welcoming steps in this direction. External events have always created panic in the Indian stock market.

Whenever there were some shocks , there was net outflow of FIIs. In the light of this, policy measures aiming at an appropriate management of the external sector and global events need to be initiated in order to improve the immunity of stock market towards ill effects of global shocks. There is also a need for optimal regulation of FIIs and pressing for further disclosures from the FIIs. In light of the current empirical evidence, before hastening for the third generation reforms, a pause for a holistic review of financial sector reforms is important at this crucial juncture. The limitations of the study highlight scope for further research. The study indicated stronger rejection of market efficiency and vulnerability of the Indian stock market to external shocks. The interaction between market microstructure variables and market efficiency indicators may throw further light. A further investigation of sources of long memory and a causal analysis of inefficiencies would provide useful information for policy measures.

Prof Abhinandan:

Hailing from a small town called Bijnaur in rural Uttar Pradesh, PepperTap CEO Navneet Singh has donned many hats – first as a captain of a ship in the merchant navy, then captaining two successful startups in India. A movie buff, and a gadget-freak, Navneet likes spend time with his kid and read tech blogs.

He says that the biggest hurdle on his entrepreneurship journey was a home loan he had to repay. After repaying the debts, Navneet, the son of a police officer, started up despite family opposition as none of his immediate family even owned a shop. He established an ecommerce-focused reverse logistics company, NuvoEx, which now covers 18 Indian cities.

In 2014, Navneet started his own company., which went on to raise multiple rounds and is amongst the top three online grocery retailers in India.
